Heavy Thrusts At Kursk Are Repulsed In Report From Moscow

(BULLETIN)

MOSCOW, June 30.—The defenders of the Russian naval base of Sevastopol, besieged for 25 days, have forced the Germans to retreat on one sector after slaying 1,500 Nazi troops, the Soviet high command said today.

Fierce tank and air battles raged on the Kursk and Kharkov fronts as the brave Soviet garrisons at Sevastopol exacted an increasingly heavy toll of German siege forces.

The Soviets engaged the enemy in the Kursk and Sevastopol sectors, the noon communiqué of the Red army high command said.

A supplement added:

Force Nazi Retreat

"On one sector at Sevastopol the Germans retreated after losing 1,500."

Earlier the Soviet high command had conceded that the Germans "succeeded in achieving a certain advance" around Sevastopol.

It was said that several attacks by German tank units, supported by the Nazi Luftwaffe, were repulsed on the Kursk front.

No official mention was made by the Red army communiqué of action around Kharkov, but dispatches from the fighting fronts said severe

Churchill Replaces Egypt Commander

By LEO V. DOLAN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, June 30.—While informed British quarters frankly described the Egyptian situation as "undoubtedly black," Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced today that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in the middle east, has replaced Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie as active commander of the eighth army on the battle-front.

Churchill told the house of commons of this emergency substitution as his first step in combating a tide of criticism over the loss of Tobruk and Mersa Matruh.

But there was no immediate surge of confidence that Auchinleck, for all his experience and ability to inspire confidence among his troops, would be able to turn the tide.

Three Million Are Registering

Youths 18-20 Are Being Enrolled Under Draft Law In Nation

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Three million or more youths from 18 to 20 years of age today rounded out the nation's roster of man power for possible war service by registering in the selective service.

The fifth nationwide draft registration completes the listing of some 43,000,000 men in the United States from 18 to 65.

Twenty-year-olds registering today are now subject to military duty and will be drafted into the army as further calls for men are made by the War department.

Youths of 18 and 19 cannot be drafted under terms of the present selective service act, but draft officials have indicated that future demands of the army may make it necessary to call the younger men.

The new registrants, defined by presidential proclamation as men born on or after Jan. 1, 1922 and on or before June 30, 1924, will receive serial numbers in accordance with their ages, the oldest being first subject to the draft.

Call Conference Of Tire Makers

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The nation's leading tire makers were summoned today to conference today with war production board officials and told in effect, to "get down to business" on the development of a substitute tire that will keep essential transportation rolling.

At the same time, it was learned that a concerted effort will be made soon to induce the country's 28,000,000 passenger car owners to voluntarily sell their "extra" tires to the government.

Representatives of tire manufacturing concerns met with rubber czar Arthur B. Newhall to discuss possibilities of producing a substitute tire that would give 3,500 miles of wear to essential users.

Washington officials, from President Roosevelt on down, have repeatedly voiced the hope that a substitute tire could be developed that would prevent disruption of the nation's economy as result of a transportation bottleneck.

I do not think of this event in my life as my retirement to a period of inactivity.

On the contrary I hope to be a useful citizen in the community as long as health and strength permit. I prefer to think of this event as the closing of one door and the opening of another.

I deeply appreciate the loyalty and hearty co-operation of my co-workers in the New Castle schools during the past sixteen years. Fierce Battle In Progress Over Several Hundred Miles Of Egyptian Desert

MERSA MATRUH NOT DEFENDED BY BRITISH

U. S. Bombers Go To Aid Of Egypt, Cairo Reports

By GEORGE LAIT
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

CAIRO, June 30.—The greatest tank battle of all time raged unabated today over several hundred square miles of blazing desert sand between fallen Mersa Matruh and the British coastal air base at Fuka, some 50 miles to the east.

With American and British bombers blasting at Axis supply bases, port and mechanized columns themselves, the weary British eighth army, bolstered by stalwart New Zealand troops, battled furiously to stem the rumbling Axis drive.

During the night the RAF and bombers of the U. S. air corps delivered smashing raids west of Mersa Matruh and on the recently fallen port of Tobruk. The enemy, on the other hand, struck from the air at Alexandria, principal British naval base in the eastern Mediterranean.

The British eighth army, now under active command of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, British middle east commander-in-chief, was resolved to make its stand on a defense line running from Fuka, 130 west of Alexandria, southward to the Qattara salt marshes.

Britain Perilled In Middle East

Observers See Serious Crisis

Believe British Leadership In Near East Should Be Changed

U. S. AID BEING RUSHED TO SCENE

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, June 30.—Official and diplomatic circles in Washington today believed that Great Britain's position in the middle east is in grave peril as a result of German General Erwin Rommel's swift advance into Egypt. It is assumed that all available American fighting equipment at the U. S. supply base of Britain is being rushed to the Egyptian front to try to stem the German drive. American supplies enroute to Russia via the Persian gulf route also may have been diverted to reinforce the British in Egypt. The speed with which Rommel's Axis forces swept into Egypt and captured Matruh is as great a shock to Washington as the fall of Tobruk, and it is considered far more serious.

Matruh, formerly the railroad for the British armies in the western desert, was regarded as one of Britain's strongest defense positions in Egypt. Official Washington expected the British would make a stand there and hold off Rommel for a few weeks at least.

The fall of Matruh in so short a time is regarded in both official and diplomatic circles in the American capital as one of the most dangerous developments of the entire war to the United Nations' cause.

Unless the British succeed in staging a sensational comeback around El Daba, to the east, it is feared that Alexandria, with its great naval base, may soon fall to the Axis.

If Alexandria falls, it is felt that the British fleet may have to flee from the eastern Mediterranean and the entire near east, including Turkey, may come under Axis domination.

The view prevails strongly in some official circles in Washington that an immediate change should be made in the British high command in Cairo. There is a widespread feeling that Rommel has completely outsmarted the British military leaders in Egypt and that new men are needed to face him if that vital gateway to two continents is to be saved for the United Nations.

The origin of the word "ouija" is believed to be a combination of the French word "oui" and the German "ja," both meaning "yes."

young John to take a bow and "say a few words," the audience rose like a wave and cheered and applauded the youth for almost a minute. It was a tribute Johnny won't soon forget, for he well knows now what his home-town thinks of him. Presiding as chairman was John O. Huston, chairman of the inter-club committee of Rotary. He took over after Clare B. Book, Rotary president, had welcomed the guest clubmen.

Early in the program the crowd arose and stood in momentary silence out of respect to the late Edward A. Hennon, florist-Rotarian, who died suddenly last Saturday.

Lion Soldier Gets Gift
The dinner also watched as Lieut. James E. Peacock, member of the Lions club, received a farewell gift from the Lions, through Numa F. Vidal, Jr., as it was announced he is leaving for the service.

In another side feature, Rotarian Arthur B. (Boss) Helman took charge of the presentation of several prizes. About 12 were distributed as Chairman Huston explained, all were war-wrapped. All were "war-wrapped or hardly wrapped at all."

"Morale for Victory" was the subject Dr. Stockdale had chosen, for his evening discourse, and no other topic he might have selected would have been more appropriate last night.

The audience, gripped by the power of his eloquence, listened as he recalled again in the part the home-front plays in backing up "fellows like Johnny here." Dr. Stockdale paid personal tribute to the survivors of the Lexington, and, for everyone, wished him well, as he departed today to return to the sea. Chairman Huston introduced Dr. Stockdale last night.

Pep singing was led by William O. (Red) Williams, who had Ernie E. Branstetter as his pianist. Rotarian Louis B. Round gave impromptu help to Williams in the song leading. A guest with Sailor Milone was his life-long chum, Guido Santangelo. He sat at the speakers table, too, as did Attorney Joseph A. Lata, president of the Wolves.

Rommel's powerful forces are advancing at "great speed," keeping their own supplies available while at the same time using captured equipment as the British fall back.

In the opinion of qualified observers, the situation—and that situation embraces not only Alexandria, Cairo, and the Suez Canal but the whole middle east—depends upon whether General Auchinleck is able to obtain reinforcements and the right type of armaments in time.

A canvass of responsible quarters by this correspondent elicited a consensus that this is hardly the proper moment to determine just what happened to the British army in Libya. It appears axiomatic that the fault lay in insufficient or inferior equipment or both. And it is recognized that an almost immediate strengthening of Auchinleck's forces to a marked degree is the chief requisite.

How this is to be done and how soon is a problem for the British high command and the various sources of supply. Churchill, the house and the average person all repose great faith in Auchinleck. But at this stage of the war it is freely admitted that the time of miracles has more or less passed and the problem now is one of severe reality.

The first speaker introduced by Toastmaster Barnhart was the superintendent of the Akron-Chicago Division, Captain John Edwards. Captain Edwards served with the 77th division in World War I and spoke of his experiences overseas. He congratulated the car men upon their graceful gesture to Mr. Garrigus and wished the new captain well in the military field.

Judge W. Walter Braham was the next speaker and he added his congratulations to Captain Garrigus. Other speakers were C. H. Rosenberg, master mechanic of the division, Mayor Charles B. Father Speaks Present at the dinner was B. F. Garrigus of Lima, O., father of Captain Garrigus. He spoke briefly and thanked the men for their courtesy to his son. President Cialella presented Captain Garrigus with a pen and pencil set as a token of the car men's respect.

Captain Garrigus was the last speaker. He thanked the men for their co-operation during his three year stay here, asked for the same co-operation for his successor and closed by assuring the men that he would try to meet the problems of running the car shop.

During the program, Earl Hammond, a B & O. man, sang several numbers and later presented a floor show using the Hammond-Miron Entertainers. In this group were Mona Brown, Mary Casey, Earl Hammond, Doris Book, June Nelson and Matt Miron. Songs and dances comprised the program.

Captain Garrigus expects to leave for camp at any moment. He has been accepted and commissioned by the government and will soon be a captain of the Railway Engineer Corps.

SOVIET FORCES HOLD BACK NAZIS IN THREE AREAS

tank and air engagements were in progress there as well as around Kursk, 115 miles to the north.

In Kursk Area

Red army leaders said that the attacking forces at Kursk were superior in number to the Russian defenders but that their strong mechanized thrusts had been repulsed. The Kursk offensive apparently is aimed at Voronezh to the east on the Moscow-Rostov railway, although it may have been undertaken simply in an attempt to divert some of Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's strength from the Kharkov area.

The Soviets themselves described the battling both at Kharkov and Kursk as "fierce." The advance scored by Nazi Col. Gen. Fritz Von Manstein at Sevastopol was made at a great sacrifice of men after the German command threw in numerous new reserves. The Red army command said.

"In the Kursk direction the Soviets repelled numerous attacks by superior enemy forces. The enemy threw in new reserves and at a cost of great losses succeeded in achieving a certain advance. Fighting was exceptionally fierce. On other fronts there were no material changes."

TANK BATTLE RAGES BETWEEN FUKA-MATRUH

had reached and by-passed Fuka, but there was no confirmation of this claim from any other source. Heavy Axis forces were forced to withdraw from a position west of Fuka at one time, it was revealed, but yesterday moved forward again and were engaged anew by British and imperial troops in the same area.

The American and RAF night attack on Tobruk was the second in 24 hours.

Besides the expeditionary forces of New Zealanders new forces of American airmen and United States planes were thrown into the battle for Egypt as Gen. Auchinleck, commander-in-chief for the middle east, took over personal command of the army from Lieut. Gen. Neil Methuen Ritchie.

"Fierce fighting took place yesterday in an area of several hundred square miles between Mersa Matruh and Fuka," the British communiqué said.

"On June 28 the enemy withdrew west of Fuka but yesterday advanced again and was engaged in the same area."

The successful battles fought by the New Zealanders took place Saturday and Sunday, the communiqué said.

U. S. Troops Arrive

(The London Daily Telegraph carried a dispatch from Cairo reporting that "thousands" of American troops had arrived in Egypt with large quantities of fighting equipment.)

Additional units of the United States army air corps, which so far successfully blasted Axis bases and supply columns in Libya and Egypt and enemy shipping in the Mediterranean, were reported being pushed into the north Africa battle zone.

The fierce desert fighting of tanks and other mechanized units, said to be increasing in intensity with the passing of each hour, had reached within less than 150 miles of Alexandria, base of Britain's eastern Mediterranean fleet.

Matruh Not Defended

After occupying the stronghold of Matruh, which the British did not defend, Nazi General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel sent his German and Italian legions bearing down upon the coastal air base at Fuka, 50 miles southeast of Matruh and approximately 130 miles from Alexandria.

Officially the British said they had no intention of defending Matruh and abandoned the railway base after having removed all vital stores from the town.

Axis claims said Matruh was taken by attack and 6,000 prisoners captured.

The middle east high command under direction of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, appeared determined to keep the desert fighting fluid until the reorganized eighth army is sufficiently bolstered to make a strong stand.

Defense Battle Line

It was indicated preparations were being made to offer the Axis all possible resistance on a 40-mile line based on El Daba on the coast and stretching southward through the desert to the Qattara depression. El Daba is situated 30 miles beyond Fuka and approximately 80 miles east of Matruh.

The threat of Rommel skirting the Qattara marshes by a southward swing also has been taken into consideration even though such a maneuver is extremely dangerous. Should the Axis succeed in smashing through in this manner the line at El Daba would have to be sacrificed, with the British falling back on Alexandria and the Nile delta.

Rome, June 30.—By Official Italian Wireless—German and Italian mechanized units have reached and by-passed the British coastal air base of Fuka, 50 miles east of Alexandria, the Italian high command claimed today.

Infantry troops and Axis planes were given joint credit for the storming and capture of Mersa Matruh yesterday.

A heavy night raid on Gibraltar left large fires raging in its wake, it was asserted.

Registration points are the offices of City Board One, fourth floor, Union Trust Co. building on Mercer street; City Board Two, fifth floor, Greer building, Mercer street; County Board One, Ellwood City Post Office; and County Board Two, sixth floor, L. S. and T. building.

In addition, Board Two of the city is registering men at the Mahoning school; and County Board One has registration points located at the Harburg school, and Shennango township school.

Evidently most of the young men affected by this draft are not accustomed to early rising, or put off registering until later in the day, because, whereas the local board offices were not busy during the first few hours, as noon approached a steady stream of youths kept coming, and by noon, there was quite a waiting line at each registration point in the downtown district.

Continuation of the scrap rubber drive

Continuation of the scrap rubber drive until July 10 on order of President Roosevelt, gives a lot of persons in this community another chance to aid this campaign. More scrap rubber is needed, and if you have any take it to the nearest service station and contribute towards this move.

The American navy came into existence in 1775, after the close investment of Boston by Washington had cut off all supplies to the British troops, excepting such as might arrive to them by water. In order to intercept these, some small vessels were armed and manned by New England seamen by authority of the congress, which soon organized a naval committee with John Adams at its head. These small vessels dethe eight German saboteurs who were apprehended by the FBI shortly after landing on our coasts from Nazi submarines," Biddle said.

"A further and more detailed announcement concerning this matter may be expected within the next 48 hours."

Biddle earlier promised that the government would act "swiftly and thoroughly" in its prosecution of the Nazi agents, who were trapped by the FBI in New York and Chicago after they landed on American shores from German submarines.

Two Americans

The two saboteurs who are American citizens are Ernest Peter Burger and Herbert Haupt.

Justice department officials said that "without any trace of doubt" the entire party of "invaders" has been rounded up and their accomplices and sponsors "either in our custody or about to be." Following the sensational arrest of the eight agents, it was announced that "several more" persons, said to be contact men for the saboteurs, were apprehended.

The FBI said that the two groups of four Nazi agents each which landed in rubber boats from the U-boats were not complemented by "any further personnel nor any other groups landed elsewhere."

Demand that the saboteurs be given the death penalty continued to come from congress. One member, Rep. Pfeiffer (R., N. Y.), demanded the mandatory death penalty for all those who give aid and comfort to the enemy.

amount of work that surprised the NYA authorities, but as one of them put it: "We're getting ready for the time when it's work fast or else! There will be no loafing then, so why do it now?" Lieutenant Simonsen remarked as the reporter turned to go that these men "got a lot of valuable training in New Castle and I think they will be able to take care of themselves in almost any emergency now."

For those who enjoy a good trumpet solo—we suggest "Lips" Page in Artie Shaw's St. James Infirmary. Georgie Auld turns in good tenor sax. Ray Corniff, trombone, and John Guarnieri, piano. Better listen!

Orchestra half as large as Kotelanetz—Dave Rose produces some really good music—good trumpet backed with predominating strings in "Dance Of The Spanish Onion."

"Just As Though You Were Here" brings us a new combination of Tommy Dorsey. Nine strings and a harp back Frank Sinatra's good baritone.

Bring in your old records. We pay cash for scrap.

Bunny Berigan fans may live again with him in his playing "I Can't Get Started" and "Jazz Me Blues."

Children will love to sing along with "Patriotic Songs For Children."

Album for the week is the new recording of the 5th Symphony by Dvorak by the Rochester Philharmonic Orchestra with Jose Hursti conducting. Although several previous recordings of this have been popular—we like the conception of Hursti with the sober, vital, invigorating "New World" interpretation.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

NEW YARDSTICK OF NUTRITION

In different parts of the nation I have heard enthusiasm expressed over "The New Yardstick of Good Nutrition" issued by the New Hampshire State Nutrition for Defense Committee. At the recent convention of the New Hampshire Congress of Parents and Teachers I came upon a copy of it. Mothers would do well to refer to it in meal planning. In daily meal planning try to include every day: Milk for a growing child 1, to 1 quart; for other family members one pint or more; for expectant or nursing mothers 1 quart. Meat, poultry and fish, 1 serving daily. For low income, 5 to 6 times a week; dried peas or beans 2 to 4 times a week. Leafy green or yellow vegetables, one or more servings. Tomatoes, oranges, grapefruit, any raw fruit or vegetable rich in vitamin C . . . 1 or more servings. Other vegetables or fruit, one or more servings, besides potatoes. Eggs, 1 a day (or at least 3 or 4 a week). Cereals and bread, at least 2 servings of whole-grain products or "enriched" bread. Fats, 1 to 3 servings of butter or other vitamin-rich fats. Sweets, after above foods have been provided. Water, 6 or more glasses. Yardstick Explanations. Count both milk to drink and in cooking; use fluid milk, skim milk, buttermilk, evaporated milk, dried milk and cheese. Count one pint of undiluted evaporated milk or one-quarter pound of dry milk or one-third pound of American cheese as having about the same food value as one quart of milk. Leafy green or yellow vegetables—Include beet greens, broccoli, cabbage, endive, chard, lettuce, wild greens, carrots, squash and others of similar kind. Eggs—Count the eggs used in baking and in other cooked dishes, as well as those served plain. Lean meat, fish and poultry—In economical diets include five or six servings. Used dried beans or peas two or four times a week. Use peanut butter to supplement these. Salt pork and bacon are fats, not meats. Use butter or other vitamin-rich fat every day.

Solving Parent Problems. Q. Would you place in the hands of the baby a cloth picture book? A. As a rule, I would not. As soon as he showed interest in pictures I would sit down with him and show him an attractive book with pictures on each page and a small amount of reading with each picture, like Johnny Crow's Garden, for example. Patiently I would spend a lot of time training him with quiet suggestion and persuasion to be very careful with the book. As soon as his interest lagged or his patience was exhausted I would put the book beyond his reach. If he is given a cloth book which won't tear he won't learn to be careful with other books. Of course, there is something to be said for the cloth book on behalf of the very busy mother, since with such a picture book the tot may quietly spend a total of an hour or more a day.

Trail Doolittle Blazed

BECAUSE they thought some planes might be shot down in General Doolittle's famous raid over Japan in April, his fliers left their Norden bomb sights home and improvised simpler ones of their own at an estimated cost of 20 cents per bombsight.

This is not only a demonstration of the resourcefulness but of the grim determination of the American bombing crews. They had everything that it takes to carry out such a desperate sortie into the heart of Japan and they thus gave the American people their biggest and best thrill of this war. All the planes got through safely, but it's just as well that the bombsight precaution was taken.

Surely we can expect that with such fighting men ready to go, the time will not be long when more raids will be made, steadily and persistently and on a large scale over Tokyo and other cities of Japan. Doolittle's splendid feat should be followed up soon with land-based planes, carrier-based planes or both.

GLIDERS FOR THE ARMY

Use of glider troops for land engagements, which was strikingly dramatized by the German invasion of Crete, is a lesson of this war by which the United States Army is determined to profit, just as the navy is profiting by revelations that airplane carriers are the most effective spearheads of the new naval warfare.

On the principle of extra pay for unusually hazardous service, the army is seeking men to enlist as students in glider flying. In the Regular Army and Selective Service the men who would qualify as fliers of these non-motorized craft also are volunteers. The age limits are from 18 to 35.

In contrast with the basic $50-a-month pay of privates, these volunteer students, once they have learned to pilot gliders, will become staff sergeants at $144 per month with flier status. The ablest among them can be commissioned second lieutenants at $245. For those in Class A, with previous flying experience, the course is but six weeks, and for the others only 10 weeks.

This contrasts with the private's ordinary basic training of 13 weeks. The number of volunteers thus far has been short of the demand, perhaps because this opportunity was not sufficiently publicized.

How large a glider force the American army contemplates is a military secret. But as early as May 18 a joint meeting of the military affairs committees of senate and house was told officially that the army already had contracted for 1,000 wooden gliders, each capable of carrying 50 men. This is ample indication that the army high command is convinced gliders can and will play an important part in the war and is determined America's force shall be ample.

NEW CENSORSHIP CODE

Based on experience since the original code was issued on January 15, a few weeks after Pearl Harbor, a new Code of Wartime Practices for the American Press issues from the Office of Censorship at Washington. Some clauses have been liberalized, some made more inclusive.

Original rules on war production information and weather forecasts have, for example been relaxed. Rules concerning ship movement and cargoes, as well as concerning diplomatic negotiations, have been tightened.

Director Price suggests that a maximum of accomplishment will be attained if editors will ask themselves with respect to a given detail: "Is this information I would like to have if I were the enemy?" and act accordingly. His suggestion emphasizes once again that American censorship is voluntary—that is, newspapers are expected to censor themselves, but in accordance with a general set of rules suggested at Washington.

No censorship can be perfect, none can fail to impose some sacrifice of journalistic enterprise. But Director Price feels that "responsible managements of newspapers and other publications have shown a splendid spirit of co-operation in observance of the code." On his part Mr. Price has never contended that all censorship wisdom resides at Washington. The new limitation on premature disclosure of diplomatic negotiations, for example, he admits is "susceptible to abuse." But he feels here, as in other categories, that interpretation will "have to be worked out as we go along."

That is the sound, democratic method of dealing with censorship problems. The president has said that news curtailment will be administered in accordance "with the best interests of our free institutions." If that can be sustained, neither the millions of readers of American newspapers nor newspaper management itself could ask for more.

OVERSEAS COMPLIMENT

Incredible though it seems, British lecture bureaus are swamped by demands for American speakers about the American scene. No returned traveler, however well informed he may think he is, need apply. This demand doubtless reflects a growing realization of the tremendous part the United States will play in winning the war, and a consequent desire to know about the character of the American people and the extent of American resources. The British as a people never have had a really clear idea of the United States, and the reverse is true despite the avidity with which Americans devour English novels, and the hundreds of thousands of Americans who have toured Europe.

It would be easy to mention a few speakers on lecture platforms and over the air whom America could well spare to the British. But their dispensability is just the reason they should not be sent as interpreters. Still, it is pleasant to find the lecture pendulum swinging back after decades in which Americans availed themselves of their very best, but even third-rate literary men and women of the continent did not lack for audiences and handsome honoraria all the way from Maine to California.

To make a British audience see a picture of America and see it reasonably whole is a big order. Few Americans are capable of fulfilling it. But the reiterated desire by groups all over Great Britain to know more about the United States is highly complimentary. So far as may be, it should be acceded to. There is, however, a heavy responsibility on him who would essay the interpreter's role.

Muscle said to be softer during this war than the last one. It's about the only thing that is.

ONE ON HER DAD

Have you heard about the young lady who put the crusher on her father? Well, it happened the other morning.

"Where have you been until this hour?" demanded dad as daughter checked in at 2 a. m.

"I've been sitting up with the son of the sick man you was telling mother you sat up with last night," she answered.

Nearly everything that used to be just around the corner has turned out to be a parking lot.

There are many things people don't like to hear, but if it's the truth they can stand it.

If the woman says "huh" when she steps off the scales the bystander is left to form his own conclusions.

This war must be won if it takes every letter in the alphabet to do it.

We have one advantage. Those who win over set-ups are apt to crack when they meet tough opposition.

If you show the bright side, you're a wishful thinker. If you point out follies, you have no faith in America.

REPAYING HOSPITALITY

If you owe hospitality to a number of your women friends, repay it by giving a luncheon-bridge.

Should you have no servant to assist you in the preparations, serve a buffet meal on your bridge table. Use a small luncheon cloth on each table if you have a set on, instead, small doilies.

Arrange your food on the dining room table and either you or your servant may help your guests serve themselves. Have everything, except the hot dishes, on the dining table before the guests arrive, so that they may help themselves to the plates, silver, napkins, and cold food. Either you or your servant (if you have one) should serve from a casserole any hot foods which you may have included in your menu.

The guests may then go to the bridge tables, set up in the living room, eat their lunch in comfort. The dessert should be brought in after the dishes of the main course have been taken away.

Remove the dessert dishes along with the luncheon cloth and proceed with your game.

Question: (1) Is it improper for a girl to encircle a man's neck while dancing? (2) Should a man ever refuse to allow a member of the stag line to cut in? (3) Must a guest dance with a couple to leave the table to dance at a dinner-dance?—A.G.

Answer: (1) Yes. She should lightly rest her hand on his upper right arm. (2) No. When "cutting in" is the rule at a dance, a man should relinquish his partner, no matter how unwilling he is. (3) Yes. Even if she is too busy to dance, he must show her courtesy by asking her to dance. (4) Yes, but they should dance only between courses and after the dinner is finished.

Davies Gives Explanation Of Communism
Tells How It Differs From Nazism Idea
Different Form Of Foreign Isms Classified

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Joseph E. Davies, publishing a series of his reminiscences as United States ambassador in Russia just as the present war was getting underway, included in one of his recent articles, a paragraph that would be good for a volume of our expatriate dope, had he seen fit to amplify it that much.

There's plenty of comment to the effect that we're pretty inconsistent in winking at Russian Communism, while balking so strenuously against Nazism, which generally is regarded as amounting to about the same thing under a different name.

The fact is that our philosophies are as far apart as the two poles.

This doesn't mean that a worshiper of one sort of carved idol is essentially in a separate classification from the worshiper of a different idol. Nevertheless, one idol's precepts may be friendly you whereas the other's isn't.

Now, Nazism is politically dictatorial in principle. It's too much on the side of being dictatorial back in our own days, opposed any government whatever. Their contention was that government merely gummed things up. Their aim was to abolish it.

Perhaps they were more cuckoo than the totalitarians, but you can't class 'em as just alike. They're as different as plus and minus, obviously.

Off On Wrong Foot

Okay, the Russians made their start first. They intended to be Anarchists, but a bunch of misguided birds pulled the program in a wrong direction. In part, they doubtless were nifty theorists. To an extent, I suppose, they were crooks. Anyway, they got off on the wrong foot.

Then along came Mussolini, whose Fascism mightn't have been so bad if it hadn't become complicated pretty soon.

Finally we have Hitler's Nazism—the math thing.

The rest of it's phooey.

Russia's brand is etherial. Italy's is incompetent. Herr Hitler has (Continued On Page Five)

Two Hundred Billion

WASHINGTON, June 30.—AS, WITHOUT pausing for thought, we slide—on Wednesday—into another fiscal year, the unconcern of some of our public officials, as well as the people generally about the vital business of Federal finance is not easy to explain except on the theory that on this subject we have become nationally numb. This could not be better attested than by the almost complete lack of public interest shown in the President's appropriation of $42,000,000,000. Neither newspaper nor radio commentators treated it as big news. It created no sensation.

YET, in the history of the world no such appropriation has ever been asked by an executive or appropriated by a legislative body.

This single appropriation is far greater than the whole cost of the last war. That so stupendous a sum could be asked and given almost as a routine matter is an astounding thing. With this last request, it is now clear that the American war effort will be made on a scale of more than two hundred billion dollars. That is where we are now. That is roughly equal to all the wealth in America, factories, farms and industrial equipment. That is a debt which imposes an open-ended mortgage upon the American people—a mortgage without a maturity date—the payment of which will weigh upon generations unborn and the ultimate discharge of which no man can foresee. How this debt, which exceeds all records, is to be serviced and borne is, perhaps, as vital a problem as has confronted the nation.

THERE ARE pessimists who say it cannot be done. Viewing the Federal finances and foreseeing a terrific post-war strain on the Treasury, these think the sheer size of a two-hundred-billion-dollar debt means national bankruptcy. But, that is not true. Such counsels tend to weaken the national spirit and should be disregarded. Vast as it is, the country can and will swing this debt. Nevertheless, it would be foolish not to face the realities.

FIRST, it ought to be understood that in order to stand up under so tremendous a load, the American people for many years to come will have to submit to really terrific taxation. There is no prospect that the burden will be lightened in the post-war period. On the contrary, soon or late, it will have to be increased and distributed until no wage-earning man or woman is exempt—until every loophole is closed and there is no such thing as a tax-exempt security. At present there are millions of the smaller income class who pay no taxes and there are literally billions of county, State and city bonds which escape taxation. In our situation both these things are intolerable. If these are not acted by the Congress they must be by the next.

SECOND, it is clear there has never been a time when as much responsibility rested upon the financial officers of the Government. There is no question that Secretary Morgenthau has done the very best of the facts and knows what ought to be done. At this session, it is true, his taxation program was not adequate to start with and what we will get in the new bill will be even less so. But, with the President opposing the inevitable sales tax and Congress refusing to plug the tax-free loopholes, Mr. Morgenthau is not to be wholly blamed. Perhaps, after the election, he will renew battle along these lines and also will give stronger support to the economy forces to whose program he is largely committed. He must know that these things have got to be done. He must know, too, that the longer they are postponed the greater the peril. In the meantime, (Continued On Page Five)

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Aircraft Warning Post In Operation

More Observers Still Are Needed At Seventh Ward Observation Post

Observers at the Seventh Ward Aircraft Warning observation post, swung into action promptly Monday morning at 8 o'clock as ordered by the United States Interceptor Command, and probably had the honor of reporting the first message to the army center from any post in the county.

Mrs. Sarah Boyles had the thrill of contacting the army command and giving a report of planes flying over, while Mrs. Helen Henderson, who followed her on duty later in the day, reported the second.

The executive committee reports there is still a need for more observers and a house to house canvass will be made this week to sign up residents for this important service. One woman, when contacted yesterday, although she had company visiting her from outside the city, readily consented to give up two hours of her time and take her turn at the post, and the same splendid spirit is being shown by many others.

The post is located at present on the B and O. platform, but will be moved within a few days to a more convenient location and a shelter house will be built to protect the observers in the event of inclement weather. A splendid job in enrolling residents for the service is being done by Mrs. Myrtle Mae Blasdel, secretary, and James A. Fletcher, honorary secretary, who have already spent a number of hours on the job.

UNION MEETING M. E. G. OPPORTUNITY CIRCLE

CASCADE PARK SCENE OF BIBLE SCHOOL PICNIC

After the close of their session at the Methodist church, at noon, Monday, the pupils and teachers of the Daily Vacation Bible School journeyed to Cascade Park to enjoy a picnic. There were about seventy present.

Various kinds of amusements were arranged by the committee for the pupils, and full advantage was taken of "kiddies day" in regard to the amusements, provided by the Park Commission.

Dinner was served at noon, in the park grove. The teachers were the committee of arrangements, with supervision by Rev. John E. Myers Jr. and Rev. David J. Blasdel.

Liberty park had more visitors during Monday than it has for many a day, possibly excepting the day former President Hoover spoke from the train platform, near the station, in the '32 campaign. Now, Anarchy is no such thing. It's been interpreted as implying the chucking of dynamite bombs, but that isn't its creed. You can be an Anarchist and a Christian, too. Indeed, that's what an Anarchist insists that he emphatically is.

Anarchy is what, by implication, ex-Ambassador Davies defends. It's time somebody took the matter in hand. It needs to be defined.

Let's Define It

Alongside of ex-Ambassador Davies' publication comes out a report by Congressman Martin Dies' committee on the subject of Nazi-ism in the United States. It assumes that this trend is totalitarian entirely—principally Communistic, but more than anything else.

It isn't principally so, of course. The Communist part of it is bugs, naturally, but it's no crazier than any other part of it.

Communism's ideal (meaning Anarchy's ideal), according to Joe Davies, is "brotherly love." That isn't much like what Nazi-ism's ideal seems to be.

The fact is that Joe Davies knows what he's talking about. He knows the difference between several of these different philosophies.

Congressman Dies doesn't know 'em apart. Make your own selection.

New Air Raid Alarm Tested

Civil Defense Director of the city D. O. Davies at 11:30 a. m. today tested an air raid whistle alarm which is located at the city tool-house, Craton avenue and declared that it could be heard in the downtown business section, Croton and on the North Hill. It is operated by compressed air. The sirens were not heard throughout all sections of the city on Black-out night, June 25.

The local director has determined to secure either one alarm sufficient to notify everybody should an air raid come or if necessary, several alarms. The only place the city can operate such a whistle is at the tool-house.

Near Lull In Pacific Area

Australia Has Little To Report In Way Of Battle Activity

By PAT ROBINSON

(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA, June 30.—The complete absence of news from this area today stresses the obvious fact that in the South Pacific warfare virtually is at a standstill.

The Japanese apparently are content to hold us here, not raiding unless we attack them, when they come back in reprisal.

During this period of lull, a great many observers have reached the conclusion that if any "second front" is really desirable this is the logical area for it. Here it will be easiest to make progress if the United Nations forces are given sufficient men, planes and ships.

The Japanese bases at Lae and Salamaua on the island of New Guinea are probably vulnerable to a determined and strong assault.

but Rabaul on New Britain, observers believe, would be a tough nut to crack, requiring strong naval support and a superior air umbrella.

Even General Douglas MacArthur, it is pointed out, cannot work miracles without sufficient tools.

So far our marauding bombers have shot down more Japanese Zeroes than our pursuit ships, which can make only one pass and run because the Zeroes are so maneuverable.

Contrary to general opinion, experience in actual combat conditions proves that maneuverability is more desirable than speed. Zeroes have maneuverability although they can't outspeed our Aircobras or Kittyhawks.

The pressing need, American airmen say, is for P-47's to compete with the Zeroes—and more bombers. Australia's defense set-up is good and is improving rapidly. But wars, military observers here stress, are not won by defense.

A letter was first written on a typewriter in 1843 by Charles Thurber of Norwich, Conn., but he neglected his invention.

Slap of the month: C.B.S. spoke briefly of beauty shops and cosmetics and concluded: "And that's the story of women and the war."

The most useful people are those who would have no jobs if they were completely successful.

The Great Game Of Politics

it would help a lot if within the Administration various notions which tend to weaken the confidence of those to whom the Government must look to buy its securities, should be abandoned.

ONE OF the most pernicious of these is that the size of the Federal debt is unimportant because "we owe it to each other." This is equivalent to saying that we are going to use the debt as an instrument for the redistribution of wealth. If this were true, who, knowingly, would invest in repudiation? Another is the silly idea that when we are spending billions a few more millions make no real difference. Another is the effort to discount the worth of money and credit and to disparage those who deal with them. This has been one of the favorite activities of a certain Administration group. It is time it was stopped.

ONE REASON we can carry so huge a debt as now looms is because the people who will supply the bulk of the money have confidence in the Government contract under which it is borrowed. Another reason is because, after the war, we will have the productive capacity to create the wealth to meet the interest on the debt and ultimately to pay it. The key is faith in the solidity of the Government and in the permanency of our private enterprise system. We have that faith now. It is the job of our Federal authorities to see, so far as they humanly can, that everything which tends to weaken that faith is abandoned and that nothing that can strengthen it is left undone.

Get In And Slug
Idea Of Youths
Being Registered

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 30.—The first of 167,000 New York City teen-agers began registering for selective service today ready to "get in there and slug" against the Axis.

"Sure," said one 19-year-old youngster voicing a widespread sentiment expressed at registration sites, "the older men are smarter. They stop and think. But we young fellows are the one who get in there and slug."

Most registrants, all between the ages of 18 and 20, had definite ideas on which branch of the service they wanted to serve. Usually, it was in the branch where some older brother is serving—or where you get action.

Boston To Enforce
9 P. M. Curfew

(International News Service)

BOSTON, June 30.—The city council today stood pat on its decision to restore a 9 p.m. curfew, forcing girls under 16 off dimmed-out Boston streets for the duration. Conditions in downtown streets were described as "shameful and intolerable."

Councillor William A. Casey introduced an order calling for appointment of 25 additional policemen to cope with "an alarming increase in juvenile delinquency among young girls."

Relief Supplies
To Be Forwarded
To U. S. Prisoners

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, June 30.—Mrs. Dwight Davis, national director of volunteer special services for the American Red Cross, said today that the Japanese government had agreed in principle to sending of relief supplies by the organization to American nationals imprisoned in the far east.

She reported to the National Red Cross committee meeting, attended by delegates from more than 20 states, that a neutral ship will be chartered which will make regular trans-Pacific trips to aid Americans interned in the Orient and Japanese interned here.

"All belligerent nations must agree to protect the ship—grant it safe passage," Mrs. Davis said, "and it is these negotiations that are slowing down the deal. 'We hope, however, that any day now safe conduct guarantee will be forthcoming and the ship can sail from some west coast port.'"

AMISH LOBBYIST FINED
(International News Service)

LANCASTER, Pa. — Sarah, 14-year-old daughter of Aaron Beller of Limeville, Pennsylvania's only Amish lobbyist, recently paid her father's fine for reportedly allowing her to miss five days of school.

Beller was fined $2 and $5.85-costs on a charge that he kept his daughter out of school without permission from school authorities. When the bearded Amishman protested that he would go to jail rather than pay the fine, Sarah used her own savings and obtained a receipt that she kept him out by paying his fine.

No Local Women Chosen For WAAC

With 50,000 Applications For 450 Places, It Was Impossible To Take All

Of the forty-odd women from New Castle and vicinity who applied for officer's training in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, not one was accepted, according to latest word from the Army Recruiting Sergeant, John T. Bilpuch.

"I really did not expect to see any go from here," he said. "With over 50,000 applications for 450 places, it would have been very unusual if a New Castle woman had been selected. This 'Bilpuch continued,' is no reflection on New Castle women. It was just that there were so many to choose from, that picking 450 from 50,000 made it necessary that a lot be left out."

Bilpuch urged New Castle women who wanted to serve not to give up hope. The officer's school is to be conducted in the near future and training for the regular auxiliaries will begin in the fall and everyone who wants to serve will get her chance soon.

"The rush of women in general and in New Castle in particular to serve in the WAAC," said Bilpuch, "amply shows their patriotism and they will get a chance to serve soon."

Nine Forest Types Located In State

All 110 Trees Native To Pennsylvania Are Of But Nine Basic Types

(Special To The News) HARRISBURG, June 30—Nature has special tree associations, similar to those of birds and animals, and a knowledge of them is not only helpful, but essential to proper forest management, says W. E. Montgomery, chief of the division of management, Department of Forests and Waters.

Tree associations of this kind are known as forest types. In Pennsylvania are found nine major forest types. They take their names from the most common trees of each association, but all of the 110 trees native to Pennsylvania belong to one or the other of the nine different types now recognized.

The leading forest types in Pennsylvania are the beech-birch-maple, the oak-hickory, the rock-oak-pitch pine and the white pine-hemlock. About the latter type center the great days of lumbering in the Keystone state, but only remaining stands of this particular type are located in comparatively small areas such as may be found in Cook Forest Park and the Snyder-Middeswarth Park. The restoration of evergreen forests is one of the aims of the department, and for this purpose millions of pine seedlings are produced annually in the state's forest nurseries.

The beech-birch-maple type, also known as the northern hardwoods, covers one-third of all the forest land in Pennsylvania. It is found chiefly in the northern counties of the state. The oak-hickory type is typically of the better soils in the southern and western counties.

The river birch-swamp hardwood type follows the principal rivers and their main tributaries, while the sweet gum-willow oak type is found only in the southeastern corner of the state. The spruce-fir type occurs locally in the northwestern part of the state, but is not common throughout Pennsylvania. Notable outposts occur in the Pymatuning swamp, Crawford county, and the Bear meadows of Centre county, where a special area has been preserved in the Logan State Forest. This area comprises a quagmire of 350 acres of great botanical interest. The unique tree growth includes balsam fir, tamarack and black spruce. Impenetrable thickness of mountain laurel and rhododendron are found on this area. Here also occur the pitcher plant, sundew, cranberry and other rare plants common to the boggy swamps of the northlands.

The scrub oak type commonly follows forest fires in the rock-oak-pitch pine type and is the prevailing type in the anthracite and bituminous coal regions. The aspen-fir cherry is a temporary type that followed fire and lumbering in the beech-birch-maple and white pine-hemlock types.

Navy Recruits Fifty This June

Second Best Month Since
New Castle Navy Office
Opened, Says Ritchie

EIGHT VOLUNTEERS
LEAVE ON MONDAY

Enlisting eight men yesterday to bring the totals for June to 50, the New Castle Navy recruiting station has completed its second best recruiting month since the beginning of the war, Chief D. C. Ritchie announced today.

Immediately after the declaration of war there were a number of enlistments who were held over until January, 1942, so that the New Castle office had 54 volunteers that month. June, however, without the nearness of a war declaration to give impetus to recruiting showed surprisingly good results, said Ritchie. Yesterday's recruits were Leonard F. Burkot, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burkot, 1235 Melrose avenue, New Castle; William R. Poindexter, Box 285, Wampum; William L. Carlo, 118 Hickory street, Sharpville; William J. DiMarco, 224 Mercer avenue, Sharpville; Clifford C. Johns, Jr., Kennardell, Pa.; John F. Hanley, 164 Chestnut street, Wheatland; and Richard G. Hutchison, Transfer.

For the first six months of 1942, the New Castle recruiting station in the Federal Building has enlisted 179 men, or an average of 29.9 men per month, Chief Ritchie announced. "For purposes of comparison, in the whole year of July, 1940 to July 1942, a peacetime year, we enlisted 64 men. We get that number in less than two months now," Ritchie continued. "These figures show, in my opinion, how New Castle and the district have responded to the fact of war."

HAY HEAVIEST SINCE '30

(International News Service)
HERSHEY, June 30.—The hay crop on the 72 farms of the Hershey estates and the Hershey Industrial school is the heaviest since 1930. P. N. Hershey, superintendent of the Hershey Farms, said that the first cutting has resulted in more hay than we can put in the barns.

Mosquitoes are associated with malaria.

Camp East Brook Chatter

The grand ball took place at Camp East Brook last Saturday night. What a festive occasion it was! The dining room was decorated with red, white and blue drapings; the tables were bedecked with white strips of crepe paper, red center pieces. The same motif was carried out with glasses of delicious red punch and red, white and blue popcornballs. Campers came in couples or groups and were announced upon their entrance. There were such notable personages as Mr. and Mrs. America, Mr. and Mrs. East Brook, The Bennett Sisters, Connie and Joan, President Roosevelt and the first lady, King Solomon and Queen of Sheba and Miss I. M. Here. Counselors were hostesses for the evening and ushered the guests to the tables where red, white, and blue place cards marked their places. Then garbed in paper napkins aprons and white head gear the hostesses served the campers at the long banquet tables.

After the dinner, Barbara Jackson was the Mistress of Ceremonies for the floor show at which a variety of talent was exhibited. There were piano selections by Margaret Knauff, Jean Fellows, Mary Jane Torak, Janet McDane, Betty Keck, Carol Lee McDermitt and Marcelyn Burkholder; popular songs by Barbara Gormley, Natalie Book and Norma Long and Hawaiian songs by Mary Lee and Beverly Baisch and Bonnie Williams. Ann Miller twirled a baton. Norma Pearce did some acrobatic stunts and then Joan Ganley and Quirey Holmes entertained the group with some tap dance routines. Jean Sumner gave two readings.

"Bobby" McDonnell taught the girls a courtly minuet which became streamlined into the modern Conga. Just as the camp is capable of gala affairs, so on Sunday morning and evening it can be transformed into a peaceful worshipful setting for Sunday school and church service in the morning and vesper service in the evening. The counselors and campers participated in these services, led by "Chirp" Burrows assisted by "Francie" Drey and Harriet Dauner.

Before the vesper service the whole camp divided into cabin groups and went on a supper hike. Thus ended an active weekend.

News Briefs From City Hall

It was refreshing to learn that a woman molester had been arrested and fined heavily. There is no reason why a woman, unescorted, should not be able to walk the streets or attend a show without some moral escorting her.

Police received a report today someone stole about 50 pounds of candy from the James Sotus booth at the Farmer's Market last night. Police are searching for boys with an over supply of candy.

Complaints to police claim there is speeding in Highland avenue, Glenmore boulevard and Sampson street. Apparently the speeders are not interested in the gas or rubber situation. No one will pay them when caught, fined heavily and their license revoked.

Chief of police Willis G. McMullen expects soon to arrange for another meeting of Auxiliary police who performed so well on Black-out night. The meeting date will be announced in advance.

Today in the police squad room a turtle dinner was given brother officers by Lieutenant James Steiner. Early this morning he prepared the turtle and vegetables and by noon he had five gallons which was very much appreciated by his colleagues. He provided the enemy of succor and captured enough prizes to furnish the Colonial army with war material, without which it could not have continued the war.

Expect 240,000 To Register In State During Day

'Teen-Age Boys Are Registering

Fifth Registration Under Draft Law In Progress Throughout Nation

BOYS OF TWENTY FACE SERVICE CALL

By RAYMOND WILCOVE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
HARRISBURG, June 30.—An estimated 240,000 'teen-age boys registered today in Pennsylvania for the draft as the nation moved to mobilize its youth for all-out war a year sooner than it did in 1917-18.

The fifth registration of civilians for service in the nation's armed forces includes boys of 18 and 19, along with a smaller number who became 20 since the first of the year.

In military circles it was anticipated that today's registrants would probably be called up for army training early in September as they reached the age of 20. As the selective service law now stands, youths under 20 cannot be inducted, but the law is expected to be amended after election.

The registration of boys 18 and 19 years old, many of them just out of high school, came scarcely more than half a year after the United States entered the war in sharp contrast to the first World War when a year and a half elapsed.

In First World War
During the first great conflict, boys of 18, 19 and 20 were registered on September 12, 1918, two months before the armistice. They were called up early in October but permitted to attend college, if they wished, while receiving military training with the student army training corps.

Today's registrants will bring to approximately 3,500,000 the number of men in Pennsylvania subject to military service. Many, however, hold a deferred status, because of dependents or employment in defense industries.

Today's registrants will be given order numbers on the basis of their birth dates, instead of by holding another national lottery. They will be placed at the bottom of the list of present registrants, comprising men between the ages of 20 and 43, inclusive. Men in class 1-A of previous registrations will be called up before today's registrants.

Wake Island Raid Surprises Jap Defenders

By FRANK NEILL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
HONOLULU, June 30.—"It was the damdest display of fireworks imaginable. We flattened everything in sight."

Col. Arthur W. Meehan, former army football star, who led the bombing raid on Wake Island, was still enthusiastic today as he recalled the experiences of the surprise attack Saturday night on the enemy-held island base 2,000 miles west of Pearl Harbor.

"We blasted the airframe and everything on the surface," he declared. All our bombs hit the target area. They weren't expecting us. Most of their planes were destroyed on the ground and we shot down the few that were trying to get up to us.

The Japs were bewildered. We were only three miles off the island when they sighted us. Their first blast of anti-aircraft fire shook hell out of us but did no damage.

It was the second bombing attack on Wake since it fell to the Japanese on December 23 after a heroic defense by the small American garrison. On February 24 carrier planes from a naval task force pounded the military installations on the small island and sank a number of small boats in the harbor.

The navy announcement of the raid gave no details as to the number of planes in the attacking force or their base of operations.

Ex-Navy Men Asked To Return To Duty

Previous Navy Experience Makes Them Invaluable In Present Emergency

The Navy has sounded a call for all men with previous Naval Service, Chief D. C. Ritchie Navy Recruiting officer in the Post Office announced today.

The Navy Department has authorized the re-enlistment in the Naval Reserve of men with previous service in a rating higher than that which they held at time of discharge. This includes all men up to 50 years of age.

It was stressed the fact that these men are invaluable to the service in the present emergency due to their previous naval experience.

With the increase in rating, and under the new pay scale, these men will receive a considerable increase over the pay they were receiving at time of discharge.

The new ratings to be given will be up to and including Chief Petty Officer, Acting Appointment.

The Navy Department has also announced an urgent need for mechanically-trained men, particularly those from 17 to 36 years of age, for duty with the Naval Reserve.

Petty Officer ratings are available for experienced carpenters, shipfitters, plumbers, welders, metal-smiths, machinists, motor machinists and boilermakers.

All men interested in these ratings can get additional information by visiting Chief Ritchie in the Post Office.

Fined $100 For Molesting Women

Elmo Broring, McCracken Hill, Punxsutawney, was convicted in police court today on a charge of molesting women and was fined $100 with the alternative of spending 90 days in the county jail. The sentence was pronounced by Mayor Charles B. Mayne. Broring was arrested by Detective John Young, Monday evening.

According to the police version, two women complained to the proprietor of a movie they had been molested. The proprietor notified police headquarters and Detective Young was assigned the case.

The man, it is charged, molested the women again in a downtown street and the detective, who was hunting him, took him into custody there.

Your Binoculars Can Join The Navy

Binoculars Cannot Be Made
Quickly Enough Here;
Yours Are Urgently Needed

(Special To The News)

Even if you can't go to sea and send depth charges booming down around a U-boat—you can help!

Your binoculars, with keen Navy eyes behind them, can spy a submarine and send it to that there is one less menace to murder helpless seamen and sink vital supplies.

Have you ever been stirred by a charity appeal to buy glasses for a little, near-sighted child? By a picture of a tiny face peering dimly out upon life, handicapped?

Then imagine what it means for a Navy lookout, staring into distance with the lives of a whole crew of shipmates dependent upon his vigilance, to be handicapped by a shortage of glasses. Here is not one potential tragedy, but a shipload of them!

Your binoculars can play an important part in averting defeat and bringing victory nearer if they happen to be the makes and sizes the Navy needs: Either 6x30 or 7x50, made by Bausch & Lomb or Zeiss. The 6x30 means six-power magnification and a front lens 30 millimeters (about an inch and a fifth) across. The 7x50 means seven-power and 50 millimeters (about two inches) across.

Most binoculars have the power and millimeter measurement marked on them. If yours do not, one quick, simple way to ascertain both is to measure the diameter of the front lens, inside frame, then hold binoculars at arm's-length toward a light or window and measure the "exit pupil" or round glimmer of light that appears on the eye lens. Divide the front lens measurement by the measurement of "exit pupil." The result is the power of the binoculars.

Binoculars of less than six power have proved of small value at sea because they do not magnify objects sufficiently. High-powered binoculars with front lenses less than 30 millimeters wide also are of little use, as they shut out too much of the light necessary to good vision, especially at night or in hazy weather. For much the same reasons, toys, lorgnettes, opera glasses, small prismatic-type binoculars and binoculars of the Galilean type (which have no prism to help focus images correctly) are useless for naval purposes.

The Navy also specifies two standard and widely-used makes of glasses because of the difficulty of obtaining replacement parts and trained personnel to keep a variety of glasses in perfect condition. It may be able to make mechanical repairs to binoculars not in good shape now, but cannot undertake to replace broken or cracked lenses or center hinges.

Persons whose binoculars meet requirements and who wish to lend them to the Navy are requested to tag them with the owner's name and address, pack them carefully and ship to: The Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. If your binoculars are not in good working order or if they are approximately five to ten years old, they will be accepted, do not ship them. Instead, write a letter to the Naval Observatory, giving manufacture, type, power and objective opening (front lens measurement) of binoculars and stating what repairs, if any, are needed to put them in good condition. Such binoculars will be called "for it and when needed."

As the Navy is not authorized to accept gifts or free loans, all binoculars accepted will be "purchased" for $100 each. If still in use at the end of the war, they will be returned to the owners and the $100 will constitute a rental and depreciation fee.

All binoculars accepted are engraved with the donor's name and a special serial number to identify them. They are then issued immediately to naval vessels and the commanding officers are requested to notify the donors of the names of the ships aboard which their binoculars are "serving in the Navy."

HAS ARM CUT

Lester Waite, aged 43 years, of 510 East Garfield avenue, was treated at the Johnson Memorial hospital early Monday afternoon for a laceration of the right arm, sustained when a wrench he was using to tighten a spark plug in his car, slipped, his arm striking the hood.

In 1643 Oliver Cromwell, lord protector of England, was appointed one of a board of commissioners for the general management of all the English colonies in America. Other duties occupied most of his time at this period, however.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Tetanus annually kills 1,000 persons in the United States. The tetanus germ lives in soil contaminated by animal manure. The disease occurs when the germ enters a wound. Tetanus antitoxin is administered after many injuries. Tetanus causes spasms of certain muscles in the face. Rigid locking of the jaw may eventually result. The tetanus poison is carried by the blood stream. Symptoms develop within 4 days to 3 weeks. This depends on type, size and location of wound. Tetanus toxoid, now gives permanent immunization against tetanus. Fourth of July explosions have caused many tetanus cases. Our troops routinely receive tetanus toxoid.

Wake Island Attack Shows War Program

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, June 30.—The developing pattern of America's battle against the Japanese indicated today that U. S. naval and army aerial units are keeping Nipponese invasion forces off balance through bold offensive thrusts against vital enemy bases.

This is the interpretation by naval experts of the latest American blow at Japanese-held Wake Island, which followed a series of raids that began in January against enemy island bases stretching from Australian waters almost to the Nipponese homeland.

While the latest bombing raid against Wake appears to be on a smaller scale than previous attacks there as well as in the Marshall and Gilbert Islands and in the Coral Sea area, nevertheless it indicates that American forces do not intend to let the Nipponese set up additional invasion springboards.

Wake Island is the nearest Japanese base to Midway Island, vital outpost protecting Hawaii, and could be used as a stepping stone for another thrust in the mid-Pacific area.

Over 2,000 Mile Trip
Considered significant is the fact that the army bombers used in the attack came from bases in the Hawaiian area, which showed that the round trip was in excess of 2,000 miles, making the raid one of the longest on record.

Just how important the enemy considers Wake was indicated early in the Pacific conflict when the enemy overpowered the heroic U. S. Marine garrison there and took the outpost after a 16-day siege in which they lost seven warships.

Following the loss of Wake, America's Pacific fleet waited for two months until the Nipponese had time to install fortifications and then on February 24, a U. S. task force smashed them and moved on to hit Marcus Island, 1,000 miles from Japan a few days later.

That the Japs again were attempting to fortify Wake was apparent from the navy's communique on the June 27th raid which stated that American bombers "damaged the air field and various shore establishments."

The communique also intimated that the Japs had some anti-aircraft and fighter protection on the former American outpost.

Bold, lightning forays against Japanese bases since the original heavy attack against the Marshall and Gilbert Islands January 31, have played a vital part in upsetting the Japanese invasion timetable in the Pacific.

According to naval experts, American raids on Jap bases in the mid-Pacific and the Australian area probably have saved other vital United Nations bases from invasion and occupation. The raids paved the way for American victories in the Coral Sea and Midway Island battles and cut deeply into the enemy's naval power.

New Award For Brig. Gen. Doolittle

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 30.—The Daniel Guggenheim medal for notable achievement in the advancement of aeronautics was presented to Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle today by Dr. J. C. Hunsacker, chairman of the National Advisory committee for Aeronautics.

The presentation was made in the office of Lt. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces.

The April raid on Tokyo, conceived and executed under the command of Gen. Doolittle, was not a factor in making the award. It was pointed out. Prior to the raid on Japan, Gen. Doolittle had been proposed for the medal on the basis of achievements in aviation over a period of years.

Axis Agents In Every Republic Declares Welles

WASHINGTON, June 30.—Asserting that "colonies" of Axis agents are operating in every American republic under Secretary of State Sumner Welles today urged joint action by all the nations of the western hemisphere to cut off access of the agents to commercial and financial transactions in the new world.

Addressing the opening meeting of the inter-American conference on systems of economic and financial control at the Pan American union, Welles said:

"The soil of our own continent is one of the great battlefields of this war. This war is not being fought today on the military front alone. We, the free nations of America, are today faced with the supreme and historic mission of repelling a total assault on our freedom and our integrity, an assault that is being carried on, not only by pirate submarines and military arms but also by the colonies of subversive agents on the sovereign soil of each one of our countries."

Worried and nervous because of a wild rumor which has somehow or other gotten around New Castle that today is the final day for sugar rationing, a pushing crowd invaded Aiken school house on Pearson street to register this morning.

"I do not know where or how or when the rumor that sugar rationing will stop today or this week got started but it is definitely not true. The rationing board will be open as long as there are people in Lawrence county who have not got sugar, and I expect that will be for the duration of the war," Attorney Wm. J. Caldwell said.

With 10 volunteers working this morning in the face of an unruly crowd, rationing moved ahead untroubled. "This is, without doubt, one of the worst days we have ever had," said Mrs. J. Walker Ballentine, who is in charge of the office.

No Truth To Rumor That This Is Last Week For Rationing, Says Caldwell

office. "If people would only realize that there is plenty of time to get their sugar and that they will all get it if they will only be patient, things would be a little easier."

The volunteers have been doing great work and the thanks of Attorney Caldwell and the permanent board is theirs. But more volunteer rationeers can be used and are badly needed, Caldwell said.

Brooklyn Has Holiday
Whipping Phils, 10-3;
Cleveland Jar Chicago, 11-5

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 30—Out in front by 9½ games, the Brooklyn Dodgers face one of their greatest opportunities of the season to take a strangle hold on the National League pennant during the rest of this week.

By way of starting what should be a virtual vacation, the pace-setters last night trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies, 10 to 3. A six run attack in the ninth did the business. Now the Dodgers will return to their own field to meet Boston and then will take on the Phils again and finally Boston once more before the all-star festivities begin Monday with the all star inter-league game at Cleveland.

All this means that the Dodgers during the rest of this week will be battling the seventh place Boston and the eighth place Phils while the opposition for the pennant tangles with slightly stronger foes.

The Dodgers conceivably could have a lead of 12 to 15 games by Sunday night and that much or more of an edge by the time the half-way mark of the campaign is reached in mid-July.

Johnny Allen was credited with last night's victory after Ed Head had been sent to the showers by the Phils, who used three hurlers.

In the only other game of yesterday, the third place Cleveland Indians in the American League moved up a half game by beating the Chicago White Sox, 11 to 5, with a 17-hit attack behind Al Milmar, who went the route to victory.

As the clubs took the field today the New York Yankees still were 5½ games ahead of the Boston Red Sox, with the Indians 8½ games off the pace. Detroit was a half-game farther back.

Sammy Byrd New Pennsy Golf King

Ex-New York Yankee Outfielder Fires 132 Along
Shannopin Course

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 30—Sammy Byrd, who once labored for the New York Yankees, was the new Pennsylvania Open champion today after he topped a field of 70 pros and amateurs at the Shannopin Country Club yesterday.

Byrd, with a 10 under par 132, raced around the morning round with a three-under par 68 and topped that performance with a record-shattering seven under par 64 in the afternoon round.

The winner, now pro at the Merion Cricket Club, Philadelphia, earned $250 for first place while Harry Ranson, of the North Hills Country Club, Philadelphia, took away second place money.

Fine, Suspension For Leo Durocher

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 30—Leo Durocher, scrappy little Brooklyn manager, has been fined $50 and suspended for three days for his actions while being chased by Umpire Tom Dunn from Sunday's first game of a doubleheader with Cincinnati.

The fine and suspension was imposed by Ford Frick, president of the National League, after a telephone conversation from Chicago with Dunn and Bill Klem, chief of the league's umpiring staff. Durocher was chased in the first inning after he protested a play in which "Pee-Wee" Reese was called out at first. But Leo didn't leave. He flourished his arms and kicked dirt at the umpire. The two other umpires finally persuaded Durocher to leave while Brooklyn went on to lose 6 to 3 decision.

Hernon, Ex-localite, Paul Bunyon Second

Sells More Ducats For Relief
Game Than City Of Philadelphia Bought

By DICK SHANER
(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 30—When the Army-Navy relief fund gets its check from the proceeds of the Pirates-Phils service game on July 9, a special vote of thanks ought to go to John L. Hernon, general head of the Pittsburgh baseball writers' association, and a former New Castle resident, whose mighty efforts to promote the game remind us of the fabulous Paul Bunyan.

He's been covering an awful lot of territory, this ubiquitous Mr. Hernon, and in fact, has sold more tickets alone than the entire city of Philadelphia bought for a similar game between the Buccos and the Phils several weeks ago. With his persuasive personality, and the full co-operation of other sports writers and editors, the game has received more advance publicity than an all-star affair.

All-Out Plugger
Brother John has been taking a lot of ribbing on the side, too, for his all-out plugging. He has been arranging innumerable pictures of leading citizens buying tickets, attending committee meetings and opening new quarters, etc. In fact anything and everything that will make a picture or a news item. And in each photo, Hernon's smiling face can be seen in the background like a full moon in the heavens. His colleagues say he and the Duke of Windsor are running neck and neck for the title of the "most photographed man of the year," and they add that in a few short weeks, Hernon has covered more papers than the Duke did in six months.

Pittsburgh fans were disillusioned considerably when Harry Bobo failed to sail away Melio Bettina in their recent Cleveland fight. One observer said the real reason for Bobo's poor showing in the late rounds was that he lost most of his starch after all but kayaking the bull-necked Bettina in the fifth and then watching him come back stronger than ever in the sixth.

Patty Berg Girds For Golf Comeback

Famous Feminine Star, 24,
Scoffs At Rumors She May
Never Play Again

(International News Service)
MINNEAPOLIS, June 30—Patty Berg, who at 24 has held most of the worthwhile women's golf titles, scoffed today at rumors that she might never be able to play again because of the injury she suffered in an automobile accident last December 8.

Hed led knee-cap was fractured in the accident. For some time she was bed-ridden, then was able to get around on crutches and eventually only with a cane. But she attended the women's open western championship last week in Chicago and while not able to defend her title she managed to navigate with only a limp to remind her of her narrow escape. She revealed that even now she is engaging in light practice preliminary to a comeback which she hopes she may start this fall or early next year. At the women's western, she was out early in the morning practicing chip and short-iron shots.

World Series Tour Is Latest Intention

Landis, Frick Discussing Plan
To Take 1942 Series On Nation Wide Tour

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 30—The visit of Ford Frick, president of the National League, to Chicago to confer with baseball's high commissioner, Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, today revived speculation that the 1942 world series may be taken on a nation-wide tour.

Three plans have been discussed in big league dugouts recently, the most revolutionary of which would add a road trip through minor league cities following two games at each home park of league winning teams. This plan would increase the length of the series from best four out of seven games to seven of 13 or even more.

Other plans, all of which would help raise funds for army and navy relief, the Red Cross and the U. S. O. would send the series troupe on a barnstorming tour after the regular series has been decided and increase the regular series to nine games.

Add another name to the list of rookie hitting homers their first time up in a big league game—Clyde Vollmer of the Reds. Only Clyde did it on the first ball pitched to him.

KLEIN SHOULD KNOW

If experience counts, Chuck Klein is just the man to stand in the coach's box and tell the Phil basemen what to do next. The former home run king, now Uncle Robert's right-hand man in the coaching department of the Phils, holds the 20th century National League record for runs scored in one season, his 158 in 1930.

Wake Blast Shows Air Power Rising

Daring Raid, Told Monday, Proves Striking Punch Remains

SAY AIRFIELD HOPES FADE UNDER BOMBS

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, June 30.—Indicating the rising offensive power of American forces in the Pacific, the Navy Monday announced that U. S. bombers smashed Jap-occupied Wake Island, 2,000 miles west of Hawaii on June 27.

It was the second raid upon the former American outpost since the war began and came less than a month after U. S. Army and Navy forces smashed a Japanese invasion near Midway Island, 1,028 miles northeast of Wake.

Under favorable conditions of weather and visibility, our planes, attacking in formation, damaged the air field and various shore installations," a communique by the Navy stated.

The communique's declaration that U. S. planes attacked "in formation" indicated that a considerable number of American aircraft might have participated in the daring raid.

Weak anti-aircraft and fighter opposition was encountered, the Navy said, and the American raiders suffered only minor damage to one plane.

The Japanese captured Wake Island on December 23 after a heroic two-week defense by U. S. Marines.

On February 24, an American task force struck at the former American outpost, dropping 219 bombs from aircraft and sending many shells from cruisers and destroyers into Jap fortifications there.

In the first raid on Wake, two Japanese patrol boats were sunk, three large seaplanes at Anchor demolished, and aircraft runways and a part of the defense batteries there were damaged.

Proof Of Striking Power
The fact that the Americans could stage a new raid on Wake so soon after the epic battle of Midway early this month indicated strongly that American striking power in the mid-Pacific has been strengthened considerably.

Apparently the object of the raids is to prevent the Japanese from setting up an air field and other military installations which might be used as a springboard for another attack on Midway Island.

To date, Naval forces assisted by the Army have staged some smashing attacks on Japanese bases throughout the Pacific area.

On January 31, a powerful U. S. task force struck at Japanese bases in Marshall and Gilbert Islands south of Wake. In that raid, six Jap islands were hit, hangars, warehouses and shore installations demolished and one aircraft carrier, one cruiser and one destroyer were sunk in addition to at least 13 other vessels damaged.

On February 24, came the initial American attack on Wake, and that was followed on March 4 by a blow at Marcus Island, less than 1,000 miles from Tokyo.

On March 10, came the American raid by Army and Navy planes upon Japanese bases in New Guinea, which set the stage for the subsequent signal defeat of the Japanese Navy in the Coral Sea battle.

Council convened Monday in city hall and referred bids for a hydraulic shovel to the city mechanic, streets director and purchasing agent. They are Chris Walker, James Gibson and Joe Alexander, respectively. The bids were as follows: Bauer Industrial Sales company, Lakewood, O. $2,690; Highway Equipment company, Pittsburgh, $3,520; and Elsie Equipment company, Pittsburgh, $4,850.

Gibson claims a hydraulic shovel, which can also be used as a road machine, would eventually save the city money.

Council in meeting in city hall Monday refused an offer made by M. J. Scanlon to sell certain land along Montgomery street to the city then instructed Solicitor Robert M. White to ask the court to name viewers for the purpose of setting a price on the land. Scanlon reportedly offered to sell eight feet frontage for $5,000, and 16½ feet frontage for $10,000. The city believes that, when the state highway is widened at that point, the city will need the land.

Mrs. Harry Wettich of the Garden club Monday requested city council to request property-owners to prune tree branches and shrubbery along city streets.

Director of Public Safety D. O. Davies Monday requested City Solicitor Robert M. White to immediately investigate the request of U. S. Marine George Ward, a former city fireman, now on leave, for one-half his fireman's wage for the benefit of his dependents.

AROUND CITY HALL

Council convened Monday in city hall and referred bids for a hydraulic shovel to the city mechanic, streets director and purchasing agent. They are Chris Walker, James Gibson and Joe Alexander, respectively. The bids were as follows: Bauer Industrial Sales company, Lakewood, O. $2,690; Highway Equipment company, Pittsburgh, $3,520; and Elsie Equipment company, Pittsburgh, $4,850.

Gibson claims a hydraulic shovel, which can also be used as a road machine, would eventually save the city money.

Council in meeting in city hall Monday refused an offer made by M. J. Scanlon to sell certain land along Montgomery street to the city then instructed Solicitor Robert M. White to ask the court to name viewers for the purpose of setting a price on the land. Scanlon reportedly offered to sell eight feet frontage for $5,000, and 16½ feet frontage for $10,000. The city believes that, when the state highway is widened at that point, the city will need the land.

Mrs. Harry Wettich of the Garden club Monday requested city council to request property-owners to prune tree branches and shrubbery along city streets.

Director of Public Safety D. O. Davies Monday requested City Solicitor Robert M. White to immediately investigate the request of U. S. Marine George Ward, a former city fireman, now on leave, for one-half his fireman's wage for the benefit of his dependents.
